When you have nailed down, you can work on other aspects of your game, confident that you will be able to produce more consistent hammocks. Without it, the minute shots will be few and far between. When the left hand grip your club properly, it should cover the end of the club completely. The wrist must be on top of the club's grip. You can have the most natural grip in the world, but if you are not in line with the face of the club, you will not get a good shot. Before tackling the ball, look down the length of your club to make sure your grip and face the club in the proper alignment. This way, when you hold the club, the face is square with the ball. [Source: LearnAboutGolf.com] If you sweep your club with your palm, your elbows will tell you. The correct golf grip results in straight lines along your arms. If your elbows are curved, your palms do a lot of work, and your arms won't stretch properly in your swings, which means low speed [Source: Easy2Technologies.com]. Crossword puzzle is a word game where the player is given a hint and a number of letters. The player is then filled in a grid of squares by finding the right words. Liverpool journalist, Arthur Wayne, invented the first crossword puzzle. Arthur Wayne was born on June 22, 1871, in Liverpool, England. He immigrated to the United States at the age of 19. He first lived in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and worked for the Pittsburgh Press. It was an interesting side note that Wayne also played the violin in the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. Later, Arthur Wayne moved to Cedar Grove, New Jersey and began working for a New York City-based newspaper called New York World. The first crossword puzzle for the World of New York, published on Sunday, December 21, 1913. The editor had asked Wayne to invent a new game for entertainment in the Sunday newspaper section. Arthur Wayne's first crossword puzzle was initially called the word cross and was diamond-shaped. The name later switched to across the word, and then as a result of an accidental typographical error the hyphen was dropped and the name became a crossword. Wayne is based his crossword puzzle on a similar but much older game played in ancient Pompeii that translated from Latin into English was called Magic Squares. In magical arenas, the player is given a set of words and must arrange them on the net so that the words are read in the same way through them and exhausted. The crossword puzzle is very similar, except instead of being given the words the player is given clues. Arthur Wayne added other innovations to the crossword puzzle. While the first puzzle was in the form of diamonds, he later invented horizontal and vertical puzzles. Wayne invented the use of adding blank black boxes to the crossword puzzle. The crossword puzzles were published in a British publication in Pearson magazine in February 1922. The first crossword was published in The New York Times on February 1, 1930. According to the Guinness Book of Records, the first set of crossword puzzles was published in the United States of America in 1924. Word Called Puzzle Book is the first published by a new partnership formed by Dick Simon and Lincoln Schuster. The book, a crossword collection from The New York World, was an immediate success and helped found publishing giant Simon & Schuster, who still produces crossword books to this day. In 1997, Weaver Crossword was patented by a variety game company, Weaver Crossword, and was the first computer program to create crossword puzzles.
