in: Continuities, Convention exclusives, Shattered Glass Share The mirrorverse is roughly 50% blue cannons by volume. Shattered Glass is the catch-all name for the fictional universe and associated toys started in conjunction with BotCon 2008. It's a mirror universe, where the bad guys are bad, and everyone has different paint schemes. The story is a Transformers take on the old sci-fi warhorse of an evil alternative universe, a concept previously seen in stories such as Star Trek's Mirror Universe, Superman's Bizarro World and DC comics' Earth-Three. It comes complete with a lost time character from our world, and facial hair for the evil versions of the good guys. One might idly suggest that Raksha, perhaps, is in a strange form of way confirmed in her views by the fact. History For the most important article. see Shattered Glass history Pre-TP The Bots are nearing completion of the Ark, and are ready for launch. The prisoners are getting ready to stop them, starting with an attack on the Ark's launch pad. Scouts from both sides have been sent to Earth, where they received the announcement from G.I. Joe, Professor Arkeville and the Witwicky brothers. Cobra has recently moved to Springfield, and now hopes to live in peace... MUX History The Old One arrived in September 2009 in a flash of light on Cybertron, observed only by Turborat. Since then, he has been seen in Polyhex, and has to Earth, leaving Turborat with him. He infiltrated autobot city, pretended to be the world's Alpha Trion, and gained access to Wheeljack's lab. In early 2010, the Decepticons organised Audacious attack on the Autobots' stronghold in Iacon, destroying Iacon's launch pad and severely damaging the Ark, in the hope of delaying the Autobots' attack on Earth until after Cybertron enters the Braid Expanse, catching the Autobots there. Meanwhile, back on Earth, General Flint and the G.I. Joes became aware of the Autobot and Decepticon advanced scouts on Earth. They conquered Buster and Spike Witwicky to try to track down their former ally Goldbug, and hunted Skyfire, which narrowly escaped an attack by Ace and Gung-Ho. In February 2010, Alpha Trion discovered Old One in Wheeljack's lab. The Old cut Trion across the chest and activated a copy of Wheeljack's Seal-O-Tronic Interdimensional Channel Changer that the Old One had built using Wheeljack's notes and plans in Teletraan II, opening a portal to the Shattered Glass universe. Alpha Trion sounded the alarm, and Old One was interrupted by the arrival of Snoop, Spike and Stormwind. Gale-force winds shot the Channel Changer out of the hand of Old One, but he managed to escape through the portal. Spike and Stormwind got the injured Alpha Trion to the medlab, where Spike treated his injuries and Trion disassembled the damaged Channel Changer, trying to figure out how to seal the gap. Unnoticed. Snoop gave in her curiosity, and jumped into the portal. On the other side of the gorge, Goldbug made himself known to Ebony, who was sitting on his bonnet in the pit engine pool. When asked about his intentions. Goldbug revealed to Ebony that the Autobots were on earth to learn from the people's defensive capabilities - something Ebony helped tremendously by bringing Goldbug into the Pit. Ebony proposed an alliance, which Goldbug sarcastically offered to his superiors before blowing his way out of the Pit and escaping. Meanwhile, General Flagg at the Burpleson Air Force Base discovered the gap opening up on the Shattered Glass side, and sent jets to hunt the Old as he escaped (though they failed to catch him and hold him). He asked General Flint to send help securing the Shattered Glass side of the portal, and Flint sent Snake-Eyes. Spacetime weakened by the act of the Ancient, a second gorge opened in the southwestern United States, on the spot where Mirage had opened a similar portal by destroying the Space Bridge. Unnoticed by the Autobots for quite some time, a third portal opened just north of Decepticon City. Ravage and Sephie Caller traveled through the Southwest Gorge, as well as many members of Shattered Glass G.I. Joe and a few Cobras. Scarlett also went through the gorge, infiltrating the Pit there and setting off explosives before being discovered by Ebony and Flint. The battle that followed, General Flint was killed. Mal-Feasance initially sent the V'Ger into space at Shattered Glass Cybertron, looking for ships trying to leave the planet before attacking the Braidexpanse. After the Autobot Warship Ark and the Decepticon Interceptor Nemesis to Earth, on September 2010 Captain MAL-FEASANCE launched an attack against the Nemesis with the V'Ger, and he and his crew flooded aboard, slaughtering all in their wake. While on the Nemesis Mal freed the prisoners Jetfire and Trailbreaker, and continued his rampage until stopped in battle by Deathsaurus. Mal was forced to withdraw, retreating to the far reaches of the Sol system to prepare for his next attack. Alpha Trion studied the fissures of the Shattered Glass universe, anxious to find a way to close them before permanent damage is done to spacetime around Earth. Traveling to the Temple of Knowledge, he found it looted, and the Underbase looted and stolen. Fearing that his nemesis was behind the act, Trion made contact with the Cyclonus from the other side of the gorge, hoping that the good Decepticons there would help him stop the destruction of the Old One. He turned to Professor Razorclaw and Lieutenant Commander Starscream for help, only to get Starscream arrested for treason. Trion took matters into his own hands and prepared to visit the Old self. When Mal used the V'Ger's space-folding disk to teleport past the Plait Expanse into orbit around Cybertron, and attacked the Weatherbots outside the Temple of Knowledge, Mesocyclone joined Alpha Trion, Dust Devil, Professor Razorclaw and the rest of the Weatherbots to fight them off. Mal's crew defeated, Mal was forced to retreat into the mountains, putting his ship in the hands of the Autobots. Months later, With the help of Dust Devil, Alpha Trion infiltrated Skymount to rescue the rebel Starscream from Cyclonus's claws. On the way there Alpha Trion transformed for the first time into recorded memory, shocking Dust Devil quite a bit. After saving Starscream, Trion and Dust devil brought Starscream and the otherwise captured Bug Bite back to the Temple of Knowledge, from where Trion planned his final bout against the Old One. Using information from Doctor Razorclaw, Trion directed the V'ger to the last known abode of the Elder. However, the semi-sentient V'ger fought the Autobots' controls and crashed into Kaon. Undeterred, Alpha Trion and Dust Devil left the ship and set off on foot behind the Old One. When they followed his path, they finally found the Old one, who claimed to be waiting for them. After the Old One seriously injured and escaped the Dust Devil, Krunix interrogated Dust Devil while Alpha Trion went to get help. Returning with Typhoon, Alpha Trion got Dust Devil back to the V'ger Saved his life, repairing him with whatever parts Blizzard could fashion aboard the Junkion ship. Trion ordered Dust Devil to stay in the infirmary until he was fully recovered, which meant that Dust Devil tried to escape as guickly as possible. Longsight, who was in the V'ger prison when it crashed in Kaon, had escaped into the ship. Longsight lay low until Dust Devil also tried to escape into the ship's infrastructure, at which point Longsight pounced, trying to catch and eat Dust Devil. It took the combined efforts of Alpha Trion, Dust Devil and Typhoon to expel Longsight from the ship; Longsight and Typhoon both had half of their faces melted off in the process. Alpha Trion repaired Dust Devil AGAIN and resumes plans to catch the Old One. In March 2012, Alpha Trion successfully followed the Old One to its base, where the evil sage was waiting. Backed by his henchman Blitzkrieg, the Old One attacked Alpha Trion with his Terminus Blade, seriously injuring him before being driven back by Dust Devil and Firestar. Face shattered by Dust Devil's Ebon Blade, the Old retreated with Blitzkrieg's help, leaving the Terminus Blade behind. At first Alpha Trion himself used the Terminus leaf, but soon attacked his evil influence. Dust Devil fought Trion and won, taking the sword off him. In return, Trion built a special sheath for the sword, and for the time being entrusted it to the care of Dust Devil. Together, Alpha Trion and Dust Devil ventured to the Room of Omega Terminus to seek help against the Ancient One. They were attacked by the re-animated corpses of Cliffjumper, Drench and Hyperdrive, and were almost overwhelmed before Dust Devil drew the Terminus leaf, on which Omega Terminus called off his henchmen. Terminus told Trion what to do to repair the cracks, and sent the two Autobots back, erasing their memories of where they had been or where they had learned their critical information. Needing a scan of the Old One's Stellar Spanner to build a machine to close the gap between the Shattered Glass universe and his own, Alpha Trion devised a plan to lure the Old one out of Iacon so he could send in Chromia and Firestar to infiltrate the Autobot base. Alpha Trion and Dust Devil successfully lured the Old Away from Jacon, and using fake IDs programmed by Alpha Trion, the femmes were able to glide easily past Autobot guards Flattop and Subsea and venture into town. After a few small walk-ins with some extra SG-Autobot guards, Firestar and Chromia were able to successfully scan Old One's Stellar Spanner and return the schematics to Alpha Trion. When Chromia and Firestar returned with the scans, they brought a mortally wounded Frenzy (SG). Chromia swore that his death would be avenged, but Frenzy emphasized his desire to no longer have bloodshed. Although Alpha Trion was unable to injuries heal, he was able to relieve the pain he suffered from his injuries, and as a result, Frenzy died a peaceful death, surrounded by a new group of Autobot friends with Chromia was reassuringly reassuring reassuring to the pain he suffered from his injuries. Frenzy's last request that his remains take back to Alpha Trion's world, but although he passed frenzy's wishes, he handed Frenzy's body to Starscream and Windshear to make the final decision. Using the information provided by the Autobot femmes, Alpha Trion isolated himself to work on a device to close the cracks, while Dust Devil worked with Trailbreaker to set up defensive installations in the temple. Back on Earth, Lieutenant Bludd was captured by G.I. Joe and held at Burpleson Air Force Base. In response to torture and threats to re-enter his family, Bludd revealed Cobra's hidden location in Springfield. After months of meeting at General Courage's desk, the information was finally acted on by Courage in 2012 when he sent Joe tracker Tomahawk to Springfield to investigate the report. In 2013, Alpha Trion finally found a way to close the gap in the Temple of Knowledge, and transferred that information to Earth, where Skyfire used it to close the gap in the southwestern United States. When Buzzsaw came through Autobot City to gather information about the closure of the Shattered Glass rifts, Metroplex sent Scamper out to meet him. Scamper provided Buzzsaw with a data slug with information about the Cybertronian and Southwestern United States rifts, and logistical information in the purpose of the Autobots and Decepticons working together to close the gap near Decepticon City. In August, after nearly two years of research, the U.S. government failed to turn up a single Cobra in Springfield, which had become a ghost town. Finally, out of frustration, Secretary Hauser decided to use the situation to demonstrate the strength of the gods, and to have one last laugh at Bludd's expense, to punish him for the futility of his information. Zero took Bludd to a hill overlooking Springfield, and told him that his family had been released and lived there safely. He then called off a strike of God and destroyed the entire city. Believing he had just witnessed the death of his family (as well as the population of an entire city), Bludd broke, savagely beating Zero and pinning him to his car. Zero begged for his life, told Bludd his family was fine and had never been captured at all, and certainly not in Springfield when it was destroyed. Bludd didn't believe zero could trust it, and felt it didn't matter anyway - he put Zero's gun against the Joe's broken face and fired, killing Zero instantly and messy. Post-TP Continued in Shattered Glass The Movie. OOC Shattered Glass started the name for the fictional universe and associated toys in conjunction with BotCon 2008. It's a mirror universe, where bad guys are good, the good guys are bad, and (usually) everyone has different paint schemes. The story is a Transformers take on the old sci-fi warhorse of an evil alternative universe, a concept previously seen in like Star Trek's Mirror Universe and DC comics' Earth-Three. Bzero thought it would be a nice TP. Luckily, Carrie agreed. Carrie got a look at the Botcon issue of Shattered Glass and fell in love with it as soon as she was reading it. She loves it! And Sephie Caller. And havoc! The Shattered Glass strip and toys are an inspiration for this TP, but there are many differences. For example, instead of Cliffjumper from our universe traveling to the Shattered Glass universe, we open portals allowing two-way travel between worlds. Also, since Carrie hates *Master and Pretenders, any character using that technology in the comic will be a normal, non-shell pre-Master in our version of the SG Universe. Adult themes Warning The Shattered Glass universe is slightly more hardcore and less PG than our usual MUX. SG-Magnus, along with a number of other SG-Transformers, investigated. Turns out the ship (which looked suspiciously similar to the Event Horizon) was actually </The> and was an SG-Junkion (think Reavers of Firefly & amp; Serenity) called Ahr-Vee. An experimental SDL system knocked him out and put him into the earth's orbit. Well, the Ahr-Vee woke up, and everyone except SG-Magnus escaped before he opened the gate to the SG Planet of Junk. Today: While SG-Perceptor broadcast the execution of Slugfest on ABN, Temperance pulled off a daring rescue. Cosmos gave chase, but Temperance evaded him. Before Cosmos could continue to chase, the SG-Junkions activated their gravitational drive and folded the space directly into the Braid Plain. Virtually the entire Junkion fleet went into the Cybertron system. Temperance saved Slugfest as the Junkions flowed on to the surface of Cybertron, led by SG-Magnus. While wholesale pandemonium spread across Cybertron, Magnus pursued Perceptor and Cuffs back to lacon. Perceptor went to activate the Stellar Spanner (the SG version of the Space Bridge) so he could flee to Earth while Cuffs got stuck outside. Magnus took Cuffs, took him to the Spellar Spanner, killed Perceptor and threw in Cuffs (along with Perceptor's head) were then sent to earth to deliver a message to the Prime Minister: Magnus is coming for him. Forseeable Future: Cybertron is now occupied by the SG-Junkions. There are still survivors, but they're in hiding. Still to come: The SG-Junkions now have the coordinates to Earth, along with access to the Stellar Spanner. While this has led to many grumbles throughout Autobot's rankings, Old Jetfire believed up as a leader would have best served its purposes. Now, as a small gathering of disarmed Decepticon leaders are forced to watch the coronation of the traitor Jetfire, the extravagant gala begins. However, a late arrival proves fatal for Jetfire. The moral of the story - if you are going to take something that belongs to Emperor Prime, you better be sure the leader is really dead.
