Samsung account notification won't go away

I struggled to figure out how to turn off (or otherwise hide) a notice that says: Samsung account Tap here to use my Samsung Account I read elsewhere online about ways to stop it but it seems not to work. I notified, held up and went to The Details for a notice. According to this screen, I shouldn't be getting these notifications, but I still am. How can I turn this off (without signing in to Samsung or creating an account)? (Galaxy S8 Active, Android 8.0.0, Samsung Experience Version 9.0) Edit: 9 November 2018 - Now the notice shows and produces a text message noise. I still can't figure out how to stop it! Edit: 17 Dec. 2018 - Still gets a notification several times an hour sometimes, and it makes a text message noise. I did everything I found online and still no solution... Edit: New 2020 - whelp my s8 galaxy bite dust and I got s10. It seems not to have this problem, but unfortunately I'm no closer to learning how to stop notification Home Media Favorites Menu Samsung Galaxy Note 10.1 2014 edition Similar threads – get rid of Saumsung Account Recently the message still appears on my Galaxy S8 lock screen: Tap here to use your Samsung account. What is this? I do not use any Samsung account! Worse, I can't get rid of him. I went to Settings &gt; applications and uninstall all Samsung applications that can be removed. But the message keeps coming up! Can someone help me, please? Thank you so much! – Sorry Samsung user Many Samsung users find their Samsung S9/S8/S7 showing the message Tap here to use a Samsung account and can't disable the notification. This is very annoying because the notification of the Samsung account occurs every few minutes for no reason. Fortunately, there are some easy ways to disable samsung account notifications. Read and find a solution that fits your Samsung phone. Recommendation: Top 5 Samsung Backup Software for PC How to Recover Deleted SMS from Samsung Galaxy 1. Turn off Notifications for Samsung Account Actually, it can be very easy to fix the problem. Just press and hold the Samsung account message, and then turn off Allow notifications. Then the notification won't appear. Try this. However, some have reported that pressing the Tap here to use Samsung account notification doesn't make it possible to turn off the notification. And on some Samsung phones, samsung account notification keeps coming back after Allow notification is disabled. If you're still haunted by the Samsung account notification, try the other methods, 2. Reset app notification app settings There are other ways to fix it. With Android Oreo, Google has introduced notification channels that you can set notification settings for all apps at once. You can also use devices that perform older also set notification settings for notifications individual application in a simple way. Just go to Setup &gt; apps &gt; more &gt; reset app settings, which will then turn on all app notifications. Now go back to settings &gt; app notifications and turn off all app notifications by turning off the switch next to All apps. Then you only need to turn on the apps you want to get from. Obviously, you don't want to get notifications about your Samsung account or other connected apps. 3. Turn off Samsung Experience Home Maybe there is a problem Samsung Experience Home on and off can fix the problem. Just go to Settings &gt; apps &gt; three &gt; special access &gt; access notifications. Then switch Samsung Experience Home to block it. 4. Delete samsung account If you notify the Samsung account after you disable the notification and Samsung Experience Home, delete the Samsung account is the last option to fix the problem from the root. Follow the steps: On the Home screen, press up or down from the app screen app center. Go to Settings &gt; accounts &gt; accounts. Select the Samsung account you want to remove. And tap Remove account. Then a Samsung account is removed, which keeps annoyingly removing you and the messages will no longer appear. If you need a Samsung account to use Samsung Pay, Bixby, you can add the account again. Some said adding an account again would not return a Samsung account notification. There is no way to permanently reject it, and it will not take NO for an answer! I've refused several times without success. Do I need to close my Samsung account to get rid of this? I don't want to use this invasive adaptation. But don't let me make up my mind. PeninaD, Harleyuki and Aburchfield869 like this. 04-02-2018 09:27 As 3 Sorry this cannot be done. The latest software update has removed the option to disable the notification. Basically, the reason why I chose Android was that they didn't force them to have an account (like Apple), but obviously they are not happy with that and now Samsung wants all of this users to have Samsung accounts. Magnificently..... Harleyuki and Aburchfield869. 04-04-2018 07:44 AM Like 2 04-04-2018 05:42 AS 2 Sorry this cannot be done. I was frustrated and eventually deleted my entire Samsung account and never filled out my account details when prompted. 04-07-2018 10:49 PM Like 0 Have this issue since oreo rollout. I have a Galaxy S8+ (SM-G955U) that works on AT&T. This default option will turn on all app notifications, but this is easy to resolve after the reset is complete. Here's how to reset app notifications to do this: Settings App menu (3 points in the top right corner) Reset app settings That's it. Now the reset in my S8+has turned on all app notifications. So I had to go to: Settings Notifications To select the apps from which I want notifications, and turn off the ones you do not want. The top switch next to All apps will turn everything off, and then you can easily browse apps and turn on the apps you want to turn on. Minor inconveniences, however, in a few minutes you will notice that annoying Tap here... notice is history! Cheers and good luck! It's annoying, but I finally got one when I had an s8. works well for my biometric security/samsung pass/pay. it is also switching from Samsung to Samsung effortlessly process. samsun also has there own find my device type service etc. I know people are trying to avoid it, but this two-minute process can save a lot of trouble. 04-16-2018 03:45 PM Like 1 the best way to get rid of GWT is to get a Samsung account. I mentioned in the post #4 that I did and entered it into my Samsung account. 04-16-2018 09:42 PM Like 1 I mentioned in a post #4 I am and signed into my Samsung account. Oh my apology then lol 04-17-2018 03:39 PM Like 0 04-18-2018 01:21 PM As 0 I got rid of this notice by deleting my Samsung account. First, turn off your phone to close any Samsung apps that might be running. Then use your PC to go to your Samsung account &gt; profile and delete it. I'm not yet sure what effect this will have, if any, on the performance of my GalaxyS9+. I'll update if I find any problems. 06-16-2018 11:01 PM Like 0 quite simply when I saw the article on privacy settings.
