Leeds drive in music

Just when I thought summer had officially collapsed, the concerts seem to be starting again! But it's not what we know. Going back to cinema days, drive-by concerts will be something of the future and we couldn't be happier. Leeds East Airport, which will take place this summer, will take to the stage as part of new social distancing shows such as The Kaiser Chiefs, The Streets, Dizzy Rascal, Spandau Ballet and Gary Newman (many more!). Credit: Utilita Performances will have about 300 cards and Leeds will be the first drive-in concert, as venues remain closed due to the outbreak. The shows will feature concert quality sound (of course) and highly unique sound, something we should not be missed as we head into the 'new normal'. There will also be a West End theatre, interactive science shows, DJ events and family shows. Drive-in shows will be in line with government guidance regarding social distancing - and all spectators will have a private space around their car to sit down, dance stand and enjoy the arts. Sounds like a good laugh to me! The demonstrations will take place between July and September at 12 venues and airports across the UK, such as stadiums and racecourses. But with tickets in the morning, afternoon, early evening and late evening, tickets officially launch on LiveNation.co.uk from 22 June. Credit: Utilita Live Nation organiser Peter Taylor said: We are excited to bring Utilita Live from Drive-In for fans across the UK. This outdoor concert series was created as a way to redesign the live music experience over a period of social distancing, allowing fans to enjoy the concert in the safest way possible. Each event will follow all official government guidelines to protect fans, artists, crew and staff. We look forward to announcing some of the biggest names in UK music and bringing these fantastic artists to a city near you. Keep your eyes open to buy tickets to the concert in Leeds.
