Maryland Music Educators (MMEA) was pleased to host the inaugural MSA 2020 virtual conference (July 16-17). The event provided twelve hours of live interactive sessions presented by leaders of Mmea and the National Association for Music Education (NAIME). A series of five keynote speeches addressed the following topics through a contemporary objective: decolonization of the music room, cleanliness of the classroom, differentiation of teaching for all students, state perspectives and national perspectives. In addition, educators had the opportunity to choose from four escape options spread over two hours. The chairmen of the MSA component organization, as well as the chairs of the NAIME board, facilitated a series of six exchange of ideas; during which leaders shared proven practices and participants had the opportunity to respond with helpful tips learned during the spring of 2020. Each day ended with happy hour sessions so that participants had informal conversations with educators in similar teaching situations. The $40 registration fee included live sessions, discount codes for products and services offered by event sponsors, and one-year access to the session recording archives. Ms. MSA will receive a 12-hour contact certificate of participation. It was open to all musical educators. Membership in MMEA/NAIME was not required.
