

FREE WHAT SHOULD I DO WITH MY LIFE? PDF

Po Bronson | 432 pages | 01 Jan 2004 | Vintage Publishing | 9780099437994 | English | London, United Kingdom

WTF should I do with my life?

Our free career test is state-of-the-art and takes minutes to complete. Individual custom matching to over well paying careers.

Sign up at the top of What Should I Do with My Life? page. Happy Reading. Almost everybody knows that they have a purpose in life, but very What Should I Do with My Life? actually know what a life purpose is, or what theirs is. It is the reason you get up in the morning and face the day. Basically, your life purpose is your personal What Should I Do with My Life? in life. Your life purpose will often lie in some specific interest or hobby.

It is manifested in the things you choose to talk about, read about, or feel passionate about. There are many ways to help you find your purpose. This is a set of questions analyzing your values, goals, and dreams. The questions revolve around your interests and goals in life. Here are a few reasons why you should take one:.. It helps you figure out your purpose in life.

You will be asked questions regarding varying aspects of your personal and work life, and the answers you will give will provide a pattern that will clarify your life purpose. It shows where your purpose lies. Some people are more connected to some aspects of life than others. Where you are connected more will probably also be where your purpose lies.

For instance, it may be in helping others, or in spirituality, or in self-fulfilling activities such as sports. The quiz will help you determine where your purpose lies. Forbes suggests a great way to discover your life purpose; following your hobbies and passions. Following your passion can often give you great satisfaction and does not fade easily. This quiz will help you analyze what you are genuinely passionate about and help you find your life purpose based on it. It exposes things in your life that hinder you from fulfillment.

There may be questions asking you about things you regretted doing, or what you would change if given a second chance. Some people are naturally just repelled by some things or people in their life, and removing these will help you step closer to your purpose. It helps you define the things you value most in life. The quiz will ask you about the things you value most in life. These could be specific relationships, spiritual commitments, particular items that you possess or an activity you enjoy being part of.

Your What Should I Do with My Life? will most likely have a pattern or something in common that will be in line with your purpose. This is basically a summary of all that you want to achieve and how you plan to achieve it. The quiz will What Should I Do with My Life? out your major passions and interests which you will then use to put together a cohesive life purpose statement.

It will set connect you with people that have a similar purpose. The what should I do with my life quiz will not only help you discover your life purpose but will also help you find people with similar interests and motivations.

You can draw inspiration from them and seek their advice. It helps you align your work with your personal life. Fulfilling your life purpose will be much easier if your career is also in line with it. For instance, if you want to help end poverty, your career should be aimed towards that particular goal.

People who know their purpose in life are more likely to building and maintain lasting relationships. It is important to note that career purpose and life purpose are different. A career purpose is basically the goals that one aims to achieve in their work life. On the other hand, a life purpose is all-encompassing and includes your personal life. The question arises: what should I do for a living that will help achieve both?

It is wise to choose a career that aligns well with your life purpose. Here is an interesting article discussing this concept from the Harvard Business Review. NOTE: Another article you might like. In-depth discussion test that helps you identify the right job for you. Job Quiz. Life purpose examples of some of the top business leaders and innovators:.. As a CEO, she has seen her purpose in instilling moral leadership by being a moral person herself. K. Rowling, the author of the Harry Potter fantasy series.

She followed her passion to write which later made her world-famous. Her purpose is clear; to be a great writer. She knew her purpose since What Should I Do with My Life? was a child, and set out to fulfill it. He emphasizes the importance of treating people properly. Generally, he wants to have fun while being a good leader. She is the founder of DailyWorth, a site that helps women invest and build wealth.

Sanjeev Saxena of POC medical. He stated in an interview that as much as he wants to achieve this in his personal life, he also wants to be able to attain it as a leader in What Should I Do with My Life?. He runs an online platform for web hosting and has worked with various companies all over the world.

He became the facilitator that allowed What Should I Do with My Life? world to connect and share. He rose above it all and today uses humor to help those going through similar challenges overcome them and heal. He probes the question; what should I do to benefit other people from what I have personally gone through? His career is now based on his life purpose.

He helps doctors transform how they interact with clients. In conclusion, everyone should figure out their purpose in life. They only have to find where it lies and strive to fulfill it. Every person should ask themselves: what should I do for a What Should I Do with My Life?

to ensure that I my life What Should I Do with My Life? is also being fulfilled at work? Most of the examples mentioned above show how famous people have managed to align their work with their life purpose.

Also, remember that you cannot live every moment of your life in alignment with your purpose. Sometimes things may not go as well as you planned. You need to stop and reach out to others for motivation and inspiration.

This quiz, as mentioned earlier, will also help you connect with people having similar values and purposes. Learn from them and help them grow.

You must be logged in to submit a review. Start my FREE career test. Trusted By These Institutions. With that said, contributor opinions may or may not represent my own personal opinions. The what should I do with my life quiz helps you focus on your passions and hobbies in life. Start our FREE career test. The what should I do with my life quiz helps you build better relationships.

What Should I Do With My Life Quiz - I Have An Answer

What should I do with my life? When I started out in my career, I thought I needed a mentor to tell me exactly what to do, when to do it, and how to do it. I prayed for this fairy godfather to drop down out of Silicon Valley and into my inbox with a complete roadmap for my life. I do know something that will help, though... Asking yourself questions. Then I try to answer them. I just type—no editing, no filtering—only me scribbling my thoughts on the page. I can answer nearly all of my questions and feel confident about my answers without ever pinging my imaginary What Should I Do with My Life?

godfather. Keep reading for a long list of questions to answer. They should help you discover who you really are, what you truly want out of life, and how to get it someday.

Brainstorm the milestones, relationships, people, jobs, and experiences that brought you to where you are today. Which did you excel at? Which were a struggle? Did you enjoy some more than others? What part-time jobs have you had? What major events in your life have happened that shaped who you are today? Consider all of the above when answering this question, then try to connect the dots. Note patterns, industries, themes, and clues that could inform your next step in life. Ask yourself: What do I want to keep doing?

Do differently? Learn from? What industries or careers pop up that may have been hiding in plain sight? What expectations do you have for yourself? What expectations do others—parents, friends, teachers, etc. Write them down and note why you and others have these expectations. Where did they come from? The dangerous thing is we never really explore why we think we should do these things. List everything you want in life, including material items. Brain dump everything, even your most distant dreams and desires.

It can also be a bit vague. This path spans your entire life, so you best love whatever it is you have to do to get all the things you want in life.

The path you choose to walk is the process by which you get what you want, i. So a better question might be: What pain do I want in my life? What am I willing to struggle for? Do you imagine yourself in an office or working from a coffee shop? For instance, if making a lot of money is important to you, you may study medicine and become a doctor.

Later in life though, you might have a mid-life crisis, when you realize that you hate the life of a doctor. I declared business as my major immediately upon entering college. Macroeconomics still gives me nightmares to this What Should I Do with My Life? Then I noticed something. I was killing my English classes, scoring s left and right on papers. Because those As felt so good, and because I seriously loved Sex and the City at the time, I began exploring the thought of becoming a writer.

The thing was that it just seemed too damn impractical—totally unrealistic. How would I ever make money as a writer when the news industry was crumbling before my eyes? This was seven years ago before content marketing was a thing. I am where I am today because I tied What Should I Do with My Life?

skills with my interests, and voila, out popped a phenomenal career that I enjoy waking up for each day. It also helped that I trusted that the dots would connect in the future. Who drove you the craziest? No need to write names. Instead, detail what about these folks irritated you so much. Maybe they were bossy and always telling you how to do your job. Or maybe they slacked off and never held their own in the group.

Understanding which people-environment you prefer can help you choose a fulfilling career. This infographic showcases the What Should I Do with My Life? general people-environments.

According to the theory, each of us has three preferred people-environments from the six above. Do you value experience over money? Or you could be deciding between two jobs. What do you value most? One day I got a call from the HR department at Vogue magazine, and they offered me a promotion. So it was an opportunity not only for a better job, more money, and the top fashion magazine in the world. So I had this fork-in-the-road moment. I have never started a business. I had no What Should I Do with My Life?.

But God this feels right in my bones. So I turned down that promotion, and I quit my full-time job and I went back to what I was doing in college, which was bartending and waiting tables. List absolutely everything you want to accomplish before you die. There could be items on the list. The number is irrelevant—just brain dump. Then lay out the action plan to acquire each skill you need.

Next, pick something on your immediate list to tick off straight away so you gain some momentum and motivation to keep going. Finally, which items on the third list would you feel the worst about not accomplishing at the end of your life? Answer that, and you have your priorities. From the tip of every branch, like a fat purple fig, a wonderful future beckoned and winked. I What Should I Do with My Life? each and every one of them, but choosing one meant losing all the rest, and, as I sat there, unable to decide, the figs began to wrinkle and go black, and, one by one, they plopped to the ground at my feet.

While I hate the idea of being 30 soon, I absolutely despise the idea of being 18 again. I mean, What Should I Do with My Life? if you make the wrong decision?! Are you screwed? Like Jobs, this approach has never let me down, and it has made all the difference in my career. It will make all the difference in yours too... if you let it.

Remember Me. Lost your password? Start here. These 8 Questions Will Tell You. Lauren Holliday October 25, Career. Table of Contents. Privacy Policy.

What Should I Do With My Life? - Quiz -

No idea what you should do with your life? Ask yourself these funny, but thought-provoking questions. One day, when my brother was 18, he waltzed into the living room and proudly announced What Should I Do with My Life? my mother and me that one day he was going to be a senator.

He also ran for state congress in his What Should I Do with My Life? and barely lost. Most of us have no clue what we want to do with our lives. Even after we finish school. Even after we get a job. Between ages 18 and 25, What Should I Do with My Life?

changed career aspirations more often than I changed my underwear. And even after I had a business, it took another four years to clearly define what I wanted for my life. Check it out by putting your email below. This is the same kind of shitty logic used to justify things like spirit crystals or that your lucky number is 34 but only on Tuesdays or during full moons.

We exist on this earth for some undetermined period of time. During that time we do things. Some of these things are important. Some of them are unimportant. And those important things give our lives meaning and happiness. The unimportant ones basically just kill time.

This is an infinitely better question to ask. Rather, you should be getting off your ass and discovering what feels important to you. This is an impossible question for me to answer. After all, for all I know, this person is really into knitting sweaters for kittens or filming gay bondage porn in their basement. I have no clue. But after some research, I have put together a series What Should I Do with My Life?

questions to help you figure out for yourself what is important to you and what can add more What Should I Do with My Life? to your life. These questions are by no means exhaustive or definitive. Ah, yes. The all-important question. What flavor of shit sandwich would you like to eat? Now, that probably sounds incredibly pessimistic. Manson, turn that frown upside down. Everything involves sacrifice.

Everything includes some sort of cost. Nothing is pleasurable What Should I Do with My Life? uplifting all of the time. So, the question becomes: what struggle or sacrifice are you willing to tolerate?

Ultimately, what determines our ability to stick with something we care about is our ability to handle the rough patches and ride out the inevitable rotten days. What unpleasant experiences are you able to handle? Are you able to stay up all night coding?

Are you able to put off starting a family for 10 years? Are you able to have people laugh you off the stage over and over again until you get it right? And your favorite shit sandwich is your competitive advantage. When I was a child, I used to write stories. I used to sit in my room for hours by myself, writing away, about aliens, about superheroes, about great warriors, about my friends and family. Not because I wanted anyone to read it.

Not because I wanted to impress my parents or teachers. But for the sheer joy of it. We all have a tendency to lose touch with what we loved as a child. Something about the social pressures of adolescence and professional pressures of young adulthood squeezes the passion out of us.

And What Should I Do with My Life? transactional nature of the world inevitably stifles us and makes us feel lost or stuck. He just wanted to play. I used to be like that with video games. In fact, for many years it was kind of a problem. I would sit and play video games instead of doing more important things like studying for an exam, or showering regularly, or speaking to other humans face-to-face.

My passion is for improvementbeing good at something and then trying to get better. The games themselves — the graphics, the stories — they were cool, but I can easily live without them. And when I applied that obsessiveness for self-improvement and competition to my own business and to my writingwell, things took off in a big way. Because they can easily be applied elsewhere. And most people try to avoid embarrassing themselves, namely because it sucks.

Ergo, due to the transitive property of awesomenessif you avoid anything that could potentially embarrass you, then you will never end up doing something that feels What Should I Do with My Life?. Yes, it seems that once again, it all comes back to vulnerability. You have your reasons, no doubt. And you repeat these reasons to yourself ad infinitum. But what are those reasons? Sounds good. Great things are, by their very nature, unique and unconventional.

Therefore, to achieve them, we must go against the herd mentality. And to do that is scary. Embrace embarrassment. Feeling foolish is part of the path to achieving something important, something meaningful.

The more a major life decision scares you, chances are the more you need to be doing it. So pick a problem and start saving the world. There are plenty to choose from. Our screwed up education systemeconomic development, domestic violence, mental health caregovernmental corruption. Hell, I just saw an article this morning on sex trafficking in the US and it got me all riled up and wishing I could do What Should I Do with My Life?.

It also ruined my breakfast. Find a problem you care about and start solving it. But you can contribute and make a difference. And importance equals purpose.

For many of us, the enemy is just old-fashioned complacency. We get into our routines. We distract ourselves. The couch is comfortable. The Doritos are cheesy. And nothing new happens. None of us know exactly how we feel about an activity until we actually do the activity. So ask yourself, if someone put a gun to your head and forced you to leave your house every day for everything except for sleep, how would you choose to occupy yourself?

You probably already do that. Sign up for a dance class? Join a book club? Go get another degree? Learn to hang glide? If it strikes your fancy, write down a few answers and then, you know, go out and actually do them. Bonus points if it involves embarrassing yourself. It freaks us out. But thinking about our own death surprisingly has a lot of practical advantages. A lot of people gave vague and boring answers. A few drinks were nearly spat on me. But it did cause people to really think about their lives in a different way and re-evaluate what their priorities were.

Ultimately, death is the only thing that gives us perspective on the value of our lives. What is your legacy going to be? What is your obituary going to say?

