He held a number of teaching posts in American universities and was to receive countless honours, as well as publish some fifteen major works on British naval history. He died in From the Dreadnought to Scapa Flow: Volume 5: Victory and Aftermath January 1918-June 1919 J Marder. The fascination. To unrivalled mastery of sources he adds a gift of simple narrative. He is beyond praise, as he is beyond cavil. This last volume describes the Royal Navy's final triumph.

The convoy system brought rewards and the US Navy arrived in European waters. The striking raid on Zeebrugge was a big morale booster, and in November Beatty received the surrender of the German High Seas Fleet. In June the following year the Germand scuttled their fleet at Scapa Flow and so came to an end a major era in naval history.

A new introduction by Barry Gough, the distinguished Canadian maritime and naval historian, assesses the importance of Marder's work and anchors it firmly amongst the great naval narrative histories of this era. This new paperback edition will bring a truly great work to a new generation of historians and general readers.
